successful is to try to provide a means such that both sides of the market can benefit from the changes, both packers and sellers or whoever the two sides are. I know it's difficult in this case, but to the extent that you can hold out a gain for each side, I think you have a better chance of accomplishing something and sustaining that accomplishment. So, with that, thank you.

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Senator Beutler.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Senator Wickersham. Senator Dierks, if I could just ask you a question or two, it would help my understanding. I'm trying to...

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: Senator Dierks, will you yield?

SENATOR BEUTLER: ...build on your exchange with Senator Brashear...

SENATOR DIERKS: You bet.

SENATOR BEUTLER: ...because it wasn't altogether clear to me either. But, as I understand Section 4, which makes it "unlawful for a packer to be engaged in the ownership, keeping, or feeding of livestock for the production of livestock or livestock products," that language seems to build on the constitutional provision of Article XII, the anti-corporate farming provisions in the Nebraska Constitution. Is that...is that accurate?

SENATOR DIERKS: I think that's accurate.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Okay, and the Nebraska Constitution currently prohibits corporations or syndicates of any type which has been, as I understand it, rather broadly interpreted to include almost all types of artificial entities, precludes them from certain types of activities under Article XII, right?

SENATOR DIERKS: Yes.

SENATOR BEUTLER: And one of...and the activities that are prohibited to those, all kinds of those corporations, is farming
